Research projects continue as planned

On Monday, June 1, 2026, a meeting of the researchers of ongoing research projects was held at the Agricultural Research Institute in Troubsko. The main objective of the meeting was to evaluate the progress of the individual projects to date and to check the fulfillment of the set schedules.

As part of the meeting, an inventory of all currently solved projects was taken, during which the achieved results, the course of individual activities and planned steps for the following period were discussed.

Based on the information presented, it can be stated that the solution of all projects is proceeding according to the approved plans and schedules. At the same time, it was confirmed that the planned obligations, including the expected results and outputs of the projects, will be fulfilled within the required deadlines.

Regular meetings of the research teams contribute to the effective coordination of research activities, sharing of experience and ensuring the high quality of the implemented projects.
